PLEASE KEEP THIS LETTER! YOU MAY NEED THE CONTACT INFORMATION LATER.

As part of our ongoing effort to provide a reliable water supply, we will be doing water quality-related maintenance work, along with our contractor, Mainlining America, on pipelines in your area between the middle of April and the middle of July.

It is difficult to predict exactly when crews will be working on specific streets, but work in the area can last up to three months. We apologize in advance for any inconvenience you experience.

Crews will prepare pipes' interiors and then reline them with concrete mortar. Because water cannot be running in these pipe sections during this process, crews will temporarily reroute — or bypass — water to customers by setting up above-ground water supply systems.

Crews do their best to prevent issues, but being on bypass can cause temporary inconveniences such as:

- Water pressure increases or decreases
- Water temperature increases
- Brief water service interruptions when the bypass systems are turned on and turned off

Motorists, bicyclists, pedestrians and residents should take extra care because they may see:

- Hoses connected to fire hydrants and PVC piping along streets and other areas
- Traffic lane and street parking closures
- Water running in streets for required water quality-related flushing
- Construction equipment and material such as rocks
- Metal covers on temporary street openings such as manholes
- Asphalt paving activities

Project details and construction status maps are available at: www.denverwater.org/piperehab.

Other Denver Water Projects in your area: Denver Water will also be conducting a pipe replacement project along Colorado Blvd. from Colfax to E. 26th Ave. from May until October. This project will impact Northbound lanes on Colorado Blvd from 7:00pm – 7:00am.
