Information

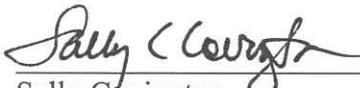

Agreement #15548A will enable Jefferson County Public Schools to upgrade the irrigation system at 12 schools to central control with flow sensing technology. Currently these 12 schools consume more than 77 million gallons annually. Denver Water will contribute funding for the controller equipment (53% of total project cost) and Jefferson County Public Schools will contribute the labor to install the equipment (47% of total project cost). The estimated water savings from this Agreement is 52 acre-feet of water annually, which brings the cost of the project to the Board to $4,600.00 per acre-feet. In addition to the water savings Jefferson County Public Schools will be better equipped to manage the irrigation and detect leaks at the sites.
